Brief Description:

Hazi A. K Khan College Department of Political Science observed World Health Organization Day on 7th April 2022. It is a special organization of United Nations established in 1948. The event showcased various activities among Political Science students and teachers to learn about the Constitution of the World Health Organization. Besides, there are various discussions about AIDS, Ebola, Malaria, recent epidemics like Corona etc. Every year with a specific theme, this day is celebrated internationally and locally on April 7, 1950 through various programs around the world.

Objectives:

Students gain experience in ensuring the highest and potential health of all people and gain knowledge in monitoring health conditions and assessing health trends.

Encouraging students to learn how to build a better, healthier future for people around the world.

Outcomes:

Students will learn about UN Sustainable Development through the celebration of World Health Organization Day by the Political Science Department of Hazi A. K Khan College.

Students will also learn about human health and well-being by monitoring public health risks.

Students will also learn about the importance of the World Health Organization during different epidemics.
